Founded in 2003, NetSteady is an Ohio-based limited liability corporation run by a staff of sales, administrative, and engineering experts who have developed some of the largest voice, video, and data networks in the United States. We are now known as a leader in providing distributed networks that deliver wireless service where conventional WiFi solutions are not effective. As a result, NetSteady has become the “go-to” organization for many wireless carriers for services ranging from basic engineering to full monitoring, maintenance, and billing.

Networks in our portfolio range from large outdoor areas like the 360-acre campus of the Ohio State Fairgrounds, large sports venues such as Progressive Field (Cleveland, Ohio) and the Dunkin Donuts Center (Providence, Rhode Island), to indoor venues such as Block Thirty Seven shopping mall. Together our networks service hundreds of thousands of square feet indoor and involve several thousands of acres of outdoor locations, all monitored 24x7x365 in our network operations and control center to ensure quality of service.

For our indoor networks, NetSteady provides a complete solution, addressing the technical and potential risk scenarios involved in these complex networks. Simply put NetSteady:

- Designs, builds, maintains and operates wireless networks, our core business;
- Works with venue owners to deliver reliable, economically viable wireless networks;
- Establishes advertising agreements, based on existing relationships;
- Provides all the engineering expertise to design the network, often without site visits;
- Will oversee the installation and deployment with the installer of your choice;
- Addresses the requirements for advances in technology that may require network modifications;

Finally, NetSteady is a profitable company. Since our inception in 2003, we have run our organization without loans, investors, or third-party interest. We have no liens, lawsuits, or problems on our record. Running our business in this mode guarantees to our customers and employees that we have a long-term commitment to success.

I would like to thank you for your time, and hope that you will allow us to compete to earn your business.
